Lawn Shower For Recent Bride

Thursday afternoon, July 26th, on the lawn at the T. W. Meldrum home a pretty summer party was held. This was in the form of a bridal shower honoring Mrs. Geraldine Duell, nee Geraldine Court.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Misses Ladon Meldrum, Colleen Mitchell, Lorraine Litchfield and Anita McBride.

As one entered the gaily decorated gate they saw many pastel colored streamers forming an arch between the prettily decorated luncheon tables and the long gift laden table. To add to the beauty were many vases of summer flowers.

During the afternoon many guests called to wish the bride happiness and leave a gift for her new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Newell of Bethany, Manitoba were recent week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Attwood.

Wednesday about twenty Raymond members of the South Pacific Missionary Club met the others in Waterton for a fulfilled evening consisting of ball, swimming and a program consisting mainly of Maori numbers.

Standard picnic fare was enjoyed very much by the sixty or so members present. Jan. Heninger, Dick Kinsey and Reed Fawns were in charge of this informal get-together.

Mrs. Stanley Donaldson returned this week from Okahogon, Washington where she attended the military funeral of her brother Wm. Clapp. He was a veteran of the First World War and a holder of the Gold Star and Purple Heart.

The United Church Services have been resumed this month and will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Wm. Anderson Guest At Surprise Party

Last Sunday evening Wm. Anderson was a very surprised and happy man when many of his friends honored him at a surprise Birthday Party with Mrs. Anderson; assisted by Mrs. Mabel Salmon, as hostess.

An extemporaneous program provided a lot of fun for everyone. Mr. and Mrs. Azel Stevenson rendered a vocal duet; Emma Dahl played a piano solo and Wm. Jensen was in charge of a Quartet consisting of Golden Snow, Wm. Anderson, Azel Stevenson, Gladys Holt (who was also celebrating a birthday) Mrs. Young Alice Stevens and June Anderson also rendered a quartet, followed by a Reading by June, Frank Anderson and Reed Fawns entertained the group with a humorous skit.

A Bible Quiz tested the memory of the group after which a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Tuesday evening at the J. O. Turner home a group of friends called in to spend the evening visiting with Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Scott. A pleasant time was had renewing acquaintances again.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Card entertained a number of friends, honoring Dr. and Mrs. Madill and family who are former residents of Raymonds. An enjoyable evening was spent catching up on events and reminiscing of the past, after which a dainty lunch was served.

Dr. and Mrs. Madill were guests at the S. B. Card home while here. They left for Vancouver last Thursday.

Miss Arlene Isaacson Honored

Monday evening a lovely Shower was held at the Fred Piegras home in honor of Miss Arlene Isaacson.

Hazel Rebalin, her sister, was in charge of the Guest Book and Eunice Piegras accepted the gifts which were opened by the Guest of Honor after the following program.

Shirley Allen played to piano solos, "Trees" and "Clare de Lune"; Geraldine Palmer gave the beautiful Reading "I Love You" after which Velma Bigelow and Margerite Anderson sang "Tomorrow Morn Is My Wtdding Day" and "Forever and Ever" and Berna Cook gave a humorous account on "Husbands". The only male present was young Brent Robertson who ably told a new story about the "Three Bears" and "At The Ballet".

A very tasty lunch was served the guests at the close of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dahl and family were visitors in Waterton on Sunday.

I REMEMBER

There are two requests I would like to make at this time if I may. First: In co-operation with our worthy Editor, Max Hamilton, I have been personally contacting Early Settlers for the column "I Remember" and for fear of unintentionally overlooking some worthy pioneer, we are requesting anyone who is interested in the "I Remember Column" to write some of the things they remember of Raymond's early days. We have had many people tell us how interesting this column is and it is you who make it so.

If you and you will cooperate with us this column will be continued throughout this, our Golden Anniversary year.

The Second Request is for photographs or snaps of your homes to go in our special section of the Town's Golden Anniversary Scrap Book "Raymond 1951"

Thank you.

Elizabeth King

(This is the remainder of the article written by L. H. Holbrook. The first installment of his story was printed in our Jubilee Edition)

In 1903 cattle seemed to me the sure road to wealth and affluence. My enthusiasm to get on that road out ran sober thinking and more mature judgment. Too early in the Spring I dashed back to Manitoba and bought about 200 head of rather fine looking dogies, I believe we called them. To do this I mortgaged everything we had to the Bank of Montreal. The Banker said I looked like an honest fellow, and asked how much I wanted. My bosom inflated, and I said all you will let me have. To my surprise he gave me a letter of credit for much more than the actual worth of my mortgaged effects, but it was also to cover the cattle to be bought. This did it. Now I was sure I was on the right track. When a notoriously conservative and successful bank would make a stranger as I was, such a generous loan, there could be in my young mind, no further question about the soundness of my venture. Father who had visited us here in Canada and in early life had been a successful cattle man had forewarned me. He had said for my benefit, he thought the land was a sound investment and also cattle under proper conditions but from the number of buffalo skeletons still piled in some of the coulees, he thought there may be real hazards in cattle trusted to the range without sufficient emergency protective measures.

A few beautifully early Spring days and the assuring attitude of the banker outweighed the experienced parental caution. I left for Manitoba with the sun shining, and bubbling with enthusiasm with pictured affluence and wealth soon to be our lot.

Mrs. Gordon Anderson and small son returned last week-end from a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Willis of Swift Current.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Piegras have as their guest their niece Mrs. Alec Mitten and daughter Marva of Kalis, pel.

Application Forms For Pensions Available

Application forms for Old Age Pensions are now available in all Post Offices throughout Alberta, the Regional Director of Old Age Security, H. C. L. Gillman, said last week.

Persons who are already receiving Old Age Pensions do not have to fill out new application forms. Mr. Gillman emphasized. Their names and addresses are being obtained from Provincial records and transferred to Federal lists without any action being required on their part. Alberta has approximately 18,250 persons in this Group. Those who are receiving a $40.00 a month pension will have it continued at that level; those who are getting a partial pension will find it increased to $40.00.

Alberta has approximately 25,000 persons 70 or over not now getting pensions who will be eligible for a pension under the new program. It is essential, Mr. Gillman emphasized, that these people send in their applications immediately, so that proof of age and residence in Canada may be checked and all arrangements completed for the first cheques to go out toward the end of next January.

Delay in sending in an application may mean that the application cannot be put through in time for the January cheque issue. The longer the delay the less chance there is that the application can be handled in time.

Applicants must prove their age, and the proof should be sent along with the application form. Birth or Baptismal Certificates are best evidence. Other documents that will be considered include records in family Bibles, Church rolls or registers, marriage records, communion certificates, passports and acknowledgements of age by insurance companies.

"If you cannot send evidence of this kind, please send any documents you do have that support your claim of age," Mr. Gillman said. "These documents will, of course be returned to you. If you cannot send anything to prove your age, send in your application anyway, stating that you have no document to support your claim of age. You will then be told what you must do about proving your age."

The pension cheques will be addressed to the pensioner himself, although provision will be made to pay the pension to some other person or agency when this becomes necessary because of the pensioner's illness or infirmity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed formerly of Raymond, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Card this week.

They were on their way to Seattle for their vacation.

Trail Builders Enjoy "Fun-de-la" Day

Friday of last week the Trail Builders of the Raymond First Ward enjoyed, along with their parents, their Fun-de-la Day. This was under the direction of their teachers Mrs. Jennie Smith and Mrs. Bessie Lybert and held on the Church Farm approximately twenty-two miles south of Raymond. They were honored with the presence of Bishop and Mrs. Hicken and the Primary representative from the Bishopric, Murray Holt, also the Primary Presidency and their husbands. After the boys had explored the surrounding hills they returned to join the game of baseball the adults had started.

The evening as well as being enjoyable was educational. They learned that the ranch included three and one half townships of land, with three thousand acres being farm land; that there were 2800 head of cattle on the ranch as well as 100 head of horses.

The evening was climaxed by deliciously fried hamburgers and all the other delicacies that camping demands. Twenty-three people were present.

For Parents Only

A Self Reliant Child

"Let me put on my own shoes!" "I want to feed myself my own cereal!"

"Let me get my own drink of water!"

"See me build my block tower all by myself!"

How often remarks like these, showing the desire of pre school children for independent action, come to the ears of parents! They are all important requests because a child's first signs of eagerness to do things for himself in the day's ordinary routine of dressing, eating and playing should receive every encouragement. This takes time and patience. Often it happens when a mother is preoccupied with something else. But in the end it pays rich rewards for a parent to give a child the opportunity to look after his own needs.

It is comparatively easy to pick out the children whose mothers have been keen on developing thoughtful responsible youngsters. If an observer watches a group of boys and girls at kindergarten getting into their snow suits. Some are quick to find their belongings, get into them and be on their way. Others seem quite lost and helpless without their mother to assist them.

The contrast is particularly noticeable in John and Bertie who are neighbors and friends. There are several brothers and sisters in John's family and he has had to look after himself for sometime in the matter of getting clothed. In record time he has his snow suit and galoshes on and is urging Bertie to "Hurry up!" Poor Bertie hasn't the faintest notion how to hurry unless his mother is standing over him, and when he cannot get his new rubbers on, he bursts into tears "Mummy always dresses me! I hate school!" he says angrily between sobs.

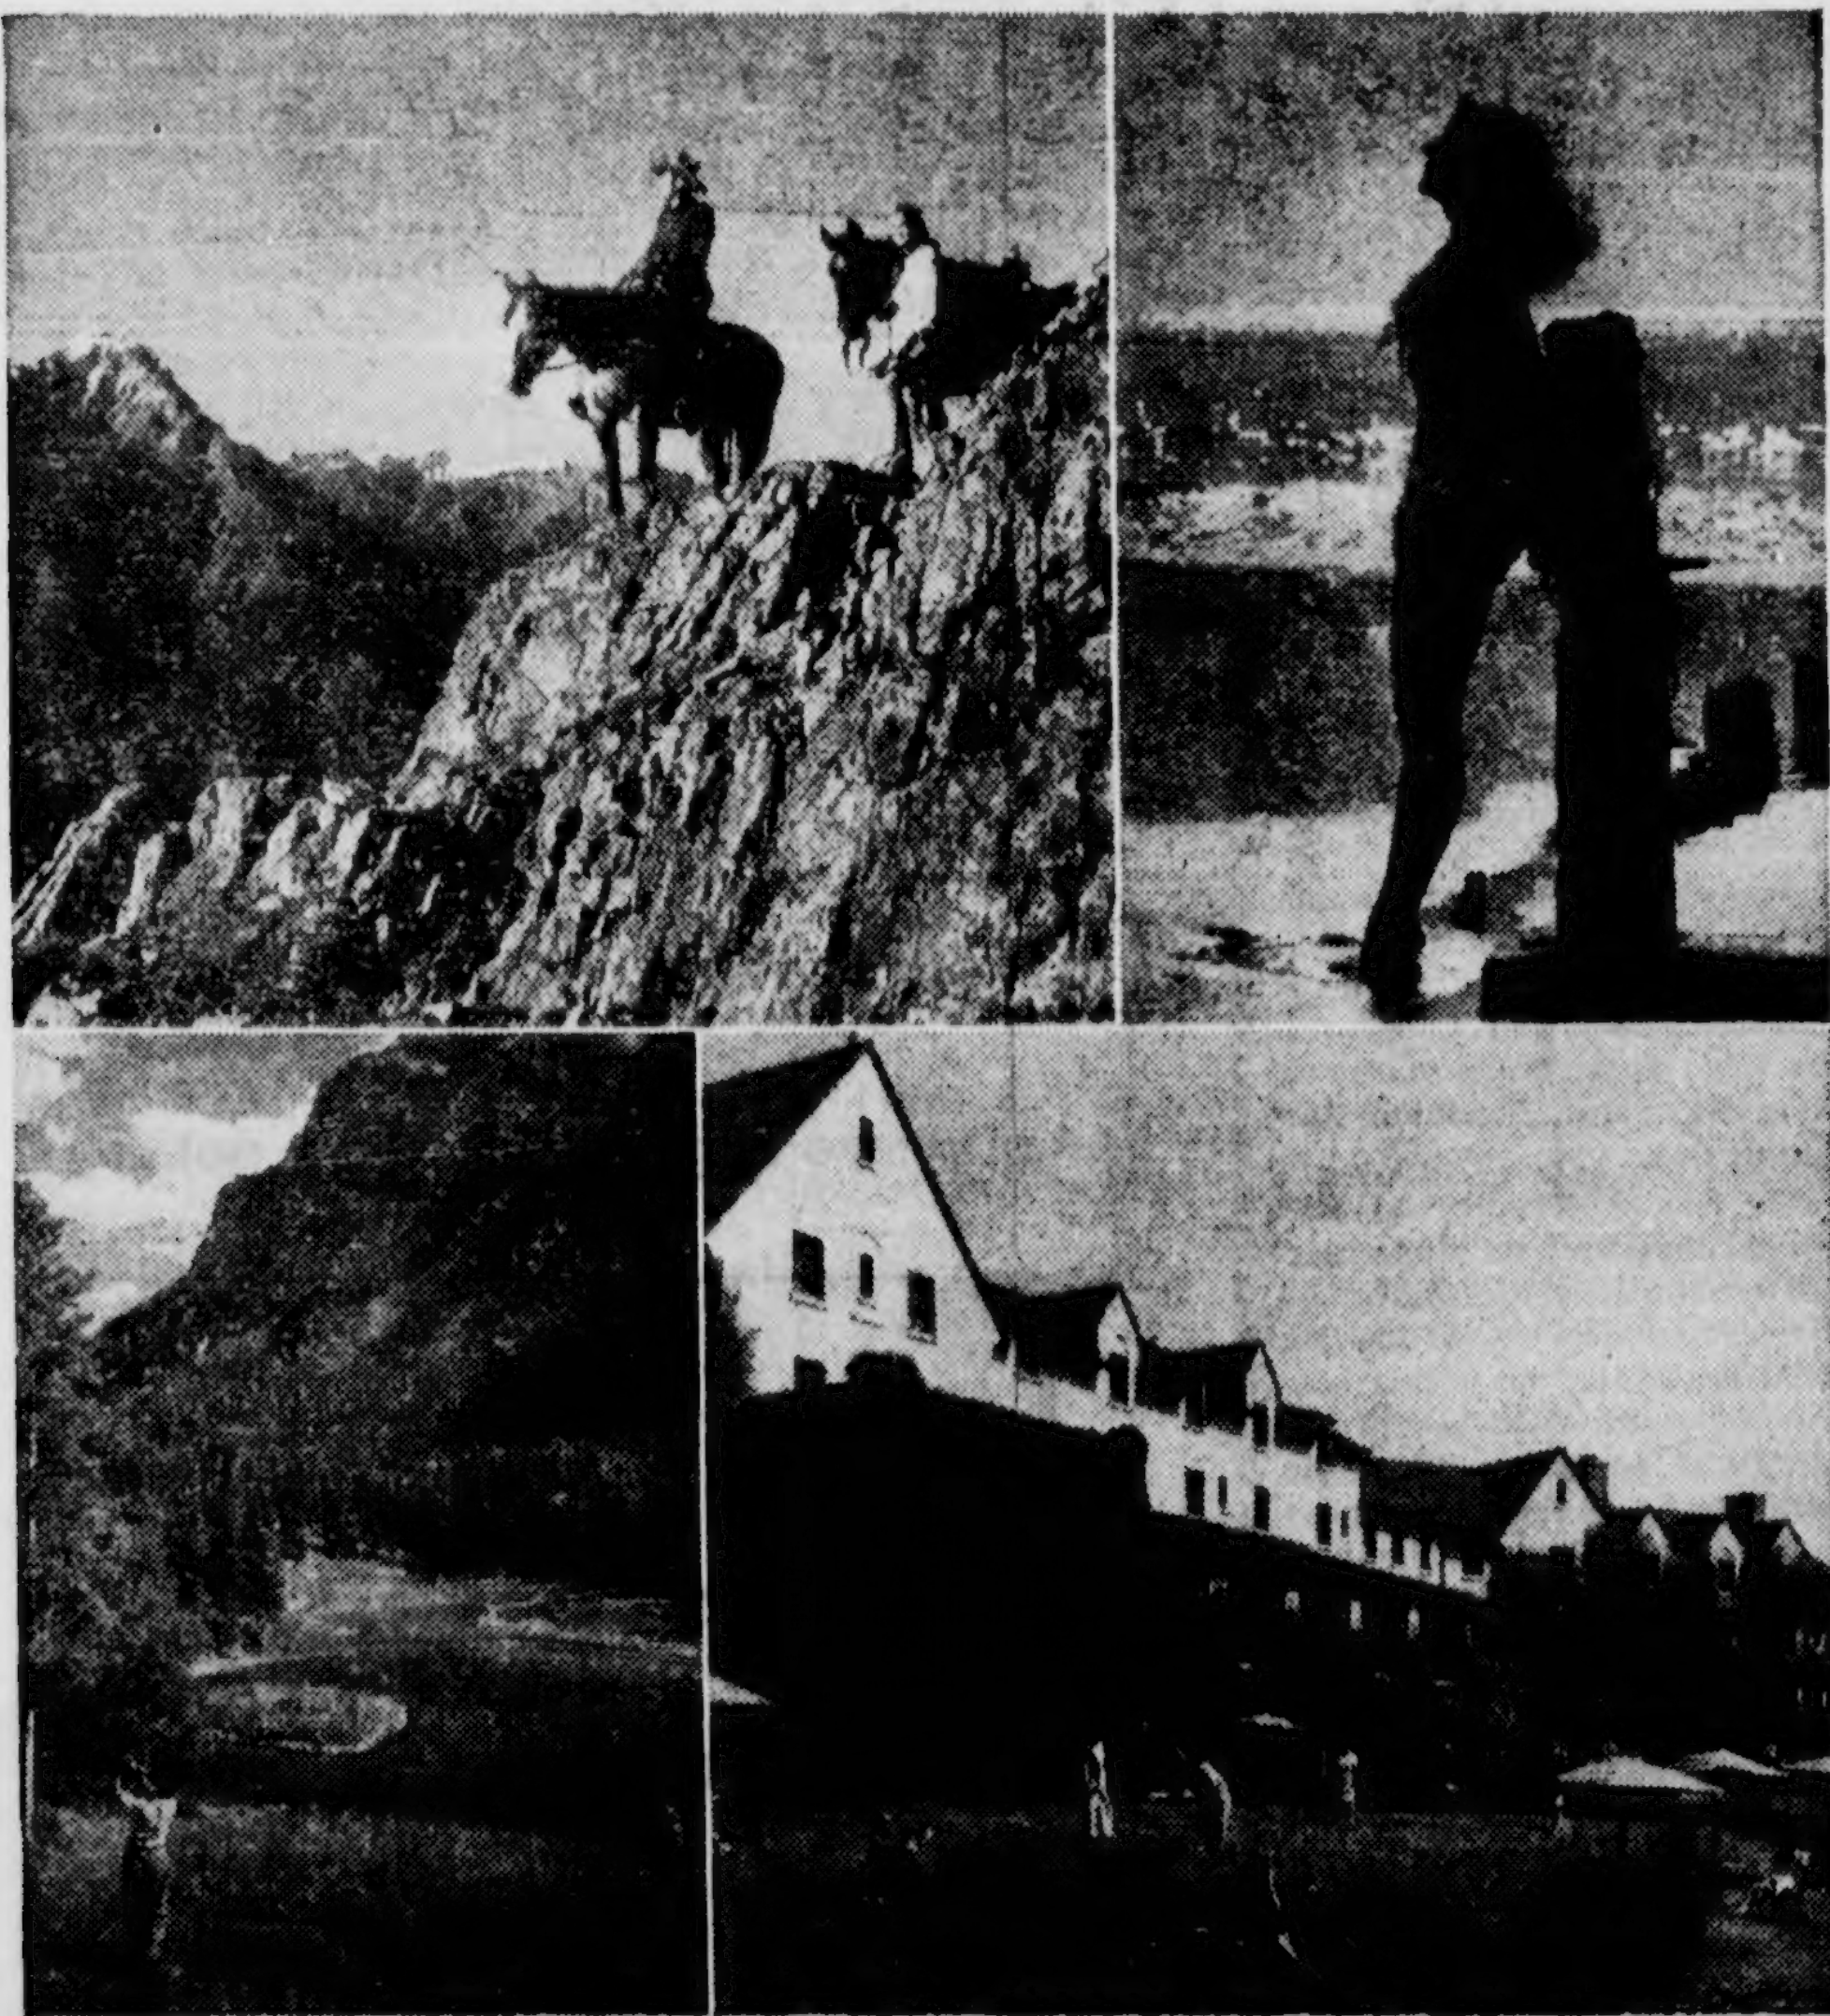

Bertie's mother in doing "everything" for her boy, her only child, has prided herself in being a "good mother". She has failed to be "good" for Bertie in not holding before herself the character goal of a self reliant child, and working steadily to word that end by quiet teaching and loving co-operation. She should never do things for Bertie that he could do for himself, like putting on his rubbers, unless there is some emergency which calls for mother's speedy assistance.

It is likely that Bertie's mother like many other mothers, can remember well the moment when she first looked down at her baby. In his helplessness he made a tremendous appeal to her maternal instincts. She resolved that she would do everything within her power for her child and protect him from harm. It seemed too good to be true that this sweet little bundle of humanity was really hers—it is just at this point that many mothers make a big mistake. That baby has a father too. Parenthood is a co-operative enterprise. Father and baby are cheated out of an experience which is rightfully theirs, if a mother does not encourage her husband to share in the care of the baby.

What dad does not get a kick out of watching his baby splash in his bath? Fathers have a good firm grip and they are just as able to keep hold of a wet, struggling infant who needs to be dried as mothers. Babies are babies such a short time that both parents should enjoy them and both parents should help each other in their ideas of ways to develop self-reliance and independence in their children.

When their children are older, they can help each other in giving their youngsters opportunities to practice independence and initiative. Father is more likely to encourage his child to be self-reliant than mother, and this goal in child training which should not be neglected! It is the self-reliant boy who is able to fight his own battles when he gets out into the competitive adult world.

When I returned the picture was partially under eclipse. Some losses had been suffered enroute. Sunshine and early Spring had given way to storm and return of winter. I fed what hay I had and more than 20,000 lbs. of oats. In spite of all my efforts losses increased. These cattle had been reared in the colder Manitoba, but feed was carried to them in sheltered barns. They had never tasted adversity and lacked the fighting heart to win under stress. In early May Spring returned. The losses had chilled but not destroyed my hopes. Things looked up until, as I recall, the 17th of May, 1903 when the real disaster hit. For three days life was not safe in the raging blizzard. On the fourth day I ventured out on the largest surviving horse I had. The Banker called to see what I had discovered—only a string of dead cattle as far as I had been able to go, as the cattle drifted with the storm. Even the Banker found little comfort in the report, but he did remark "You were as helpless in this catastrophe as though an earthquake had swallowed us." I thanked him for the appraisal and assured him he would get every penny with interest if he would give me a chance and co-operate. It took a year.

My bubble had burst and the dream proven a mirage, but I believe the effort and success in finally salvaging my credit and good name has been worth all it cost.

Four-to-One Bet
By Joseph Lister Rutledge

Those who are ready to believe that government control of almost anything will bring happy results would have been cheered by the Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner's report to the House on the control of wheat marketing. Mr. Gardiner stated quite blandly that the operation of the "Grain Exchange—which is sometimes called the free market of grain" could show no five-year period when wheat prices equalled $1.00 a bushel, while the only time the price had reached $1.50 was under the administration board set up by the government.

That would be convincing evidence if Mr. Gardiner had been as correct as he was positive. But the facts, as pointed out by the Searle Grain Co. of Winnipeg were against him. For instance, contrary to Mr. Gardiner's statement, in the ten-year period, 1920-1930, the average price on the open future market of the Exchange was $1.406, while there were seven other years between 1907 and 1917 when the average price was over the dollar figure.

As to wheat never having reached $1.50 except under the blessing of government supervision, Mr. Gardiner must have overlooked 1916, 1920, 1924 and 1925 when the price stood at $2.056, $1.993, $1.685 and $1.512 respectively. This is on the authority of the government's own Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

But what is a still more important oversight is that Mr. Gardiner neglected to explain that the figures he used represented depreciated dollars while what interested the farmer was a bushel of wheat would buy of the commodities he needed. When the purchasing power of the wheat-dollar is adjusted to its real purchasing power on the basis of the Bureau of Statistics Index for various commodities and services, it appears that over the 50 year period in which wheat prices have been registered in the open market there have been only ten years when the purchasing power of a bushel of wheat has been lower than in the five years of government marketing. Over this stretch of half a century, in four years out of five the wheat grower would have been better off had he been allowed to market his product freely, and in only one year in five would he have received a hint of benefit from the interposition of government. The odds on government operation do not look to be very promising.

How To Invite Depression

A man lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.
He was hard of hearing, so he had no radio.
He had trouble with his eyes, so he read no papers.
BUT, he sold good hot dogs.
He put signs on the highway telling how good they were.
He stood by the side of the road and called out "Buy a Hot Dog, Mister?"

And people bought.
He increased his meat and bun orders and bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.
He brought his son home from college to help him.

But then something happened.
His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio. There is a big depression on. The European situation is terrible and the domestic even worse."

Whereupon, the Father thought, Well, my son has been to college, he has read the papers and listened to the radio and he ought to know.
So the Father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his advertising signs and no longer bothered to stand on the highway to sell hot dogs, and the hot dog sales fell almost over night.

"You are right, son" the Father said to the boy. "We are certainly in the middle of a great depression" J. O. Turner.

WHEAT POOL POLICY

It was never the intention of the founders of the Alberta Wheat Pool and Pool Elevators that earnings should be distributed on the basis of capital stock holdings. The Pool elevator system was built to give service to working farmers, not make profits for stockholders.

The present Wheat Pool policy in respect to reserves accumulated during the period 1923 to 1928 provides for their purchase at 100 cents on the dollar from the older members and those no longer engaged in farming and the transferring of these reserves to members who patronize Pool elevators, together with a cash patronage dividend in years when earnings justify same.

Since Alberta Pool Elevators started in business the following payments have been made to patrons and reserve holders.

Patronage dividends in cash	$ 4,695,593
Redemption of reserves	5,876,900
Total	$ 10,572,493

In addition to the above, patronage dividends have been paid in reserves to a total of $4,935,846.

Every Pool member should have a clear understanding of Pool policies. It is believed that such policies should encourage more farmers to become Pool members and should also be an incentive to increased deliveries to Pool elevators.
